COURT NEWS

The February term of Supreme Judicial Court convened at South Paris on Tuesday, Feb. 10. During the first week of the term considerable business has been disposed of. Since the jurors were empaneled last Wednesday they have been constantly employed.

Among the attorneys in attendance at the opening of the term were Judge Matthew McCarthy, Judge A. E. Stearns, Ralph T. Parker, Albert Bell, George A. Hutchins and Peter McDonald of Hiram; Hon. John P. Swadlow of Canton; Hon. H. H. Hastings and E. C. Park of Bethel; E. E. Hastings and Hugh W. Hastings of Fryeburg; Walter P. Perkins of Cornish; E. P. Corlies of Bridgton; Charles F. Whitman, Eugene F. Smith and W. G. Conary of Norway; Walter L. Gray, Alton C. Wheeler and Harry M. Shaw of South Paris.

A trial list of some twenty-five cases made up on the opening morning of the term melted away quite rapidly as the time for trials approached, and by the time the organization of the jurors was completed the list was about half gone.

The first case to be tried was the case of Elizabeth M. Morgan vs. Benjamin B. Bicknell for assault. After the evidence was all in the verdict in the case was for the plaintiff in the sum of $1,475.00.

The grand jury finished its work early Wednesday afternoon, and reported the following indictments which were made public:

Joseph Gagne. Escape from jail.
Carroll E. Davis. Breaking, entering and larceny.

Thomas Hamman. Operating auto while intoxicated.

Albert Boldee. Operating auto while intoxicated.

Alden E. Maxim. Operating auto recklessly.

Joseph Jalbert. Operating auto while intoxicated.

Home Brooks. Adultery.

Charles Bracy. Three indictments, attempt to manufacture intoxicating liquor, possession of mash, and possession of still.

William Stover. Larceny.

Orvis Powell. Operating auto while intoxicated.

Mir McCarthy. Description of wife.

Allie Gross. Forgery.

Ronald Paradis. Unlawful possession of liquor.

Asa Chouard. Operating auto while intoxicated.

Ovide Hamel and Dolar Gagnon. Illegal possession, and conspiracy to transport liquor.

Edgar A. Hall. Selling mortgaged property.

Harold Davis. Operating auto while intoxicated, and transporting liquor without permit.

Ovide Hamel and Dolar Gagnon. Transporting liquor without permit.

James H. Stone. Operating auto while intoxicated.

Walter L. Littlehale and Marie Hampson. Adultery.

After the grand jury had reported, criminal matters were taken up. The first trial was that of William Stover of Norway, indicted for the larceny of $60.00 in money, the property of Benjamin F. Richardson of Norway. The verdict returned was guilty.

Allie Gross, arraigned on an indictment for forgery of a check, pleaded not guilty. He was sentenced to eight months in jail, to date from Dec. 31, when he was committed.

The next trial was that of Clarence E. Lusscutt of Paris, indicted for non-support of his two children, the eldest being three years old. Mr. and Mrs. Lusscutt have been married about six years. Last winter they went to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Graver of Norway, where Mrs. Lusscutt and the children still remain, while Mr. Lusscutt has been elsewhere since last June, and has contributed only $24 toward the support of the children. He was found guilty.

The trial of Alden Maxim of South Paris on an indictment for reckless driving of an automobile was next. After considerable arguments to was found guilty.

James H. Stone of Hiram was tried on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. After a number of witnesses had been called for the state and defense theory of the case and after being out about five minutes returned with a verdict of guilty. In this case a motion was filed for new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the evidence and manifestly against the weight of evidence, but Justice Dean denied the motion, remarking that he could not find the verdict not palpably wrong, but manifestly right.

The trial of Harold E. Cole for non-support of his two children, the eldest being three years old. Mr. and Mrs. Cole have been married about six years. Last winter they went to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Graver of Norway, where Mrs. Cole and the children still remain, while Mr. Cole has been elsewhere since last June, and has contributed only $24 toward the support of the children. He was found guilty.

A private funeral was held at the Anderson home, Sunday A. M., and he was laid to rest in the cemetery near Hunt's corner. The pall bearers were the near relatives of the deceased, and Rev. Mr. Thurston of North Waterford was the officiating clergyman.

Harold E. Davis of Lewiston was tried on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was found guilty.

Norman H. Jodrey of Bethel, Joseph J. Jodrey of Hiram, and Albert Boldee of Hiram have pleaded guilty to the charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

O. E. S. INSTALLATION

On the evening of Feb. 11, a public installation of the officers of Parity Chapter, No. 102, Order of the Eastern Star, was held at the Masonic Hall. One hundred members and visitors were present. The work of installing was done by Grand Matron Della M. Ohler of Portland, assisted by Mrs. Emma Van Den Kerkhofen and Mrs. Bertha Keniston of Bethel.

A program consisting of an enjoyable piano solo with encore, by Mrs. E. Russell, a vocal number of much merit rendered by Mrs. Rowe, Mrs. Achenbach and Mrs. Lyon, and selections by a glee club made up of Mrs. Bryant and the Misses Sampson, Estes and Goodnow, was interspersed with the ceremonies of installation.

Gifts of appreciation were given to the installing officers. Refreshments of Welsh rarebit, coffee, assorted cake with fruit and salted nuts were served. The officers of Parity Chapter for 1925 are as follows:

W. M.—Mrs. Susan Edwards
W. P.—Dr. Raymond Tibbels
A. M.—Mrs. Grace Philbrook

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Beavers and Eagles Hold Overtime Meeting—Send for Nockerschiefs—New Members Received—Vote to Learn Scout Songs.

The Bethel Scouts held an unusually live business meeting on Monday evening from seven to eight o'clock. One new Scout was added, Charles Chapin. Gilbert Brown began on his Tenderfoot tests. Unexpected refreshments were enjoyed. It was voted to meet next Monday evening at the grammar school where Miss Ruth Lensef will teach some Scout songs. Every Scout will be urged to take advantage of the favor so willingly undertaken by this teacher. Many boys ordered neckerchiefs chosen as patrol vests several weeks ago. The three months' period marked out in the point system, closes next Monday evening. The Beavers lead, having 1913 points. The Eagles will make a wonderful increase during these closing days. Dues go back to one cent the first meeting in March—one week from next Monday night.

ISAIAH HASELTON

Isaiah Haselton passed away at the home of L. J. Andrews, Friday, Feb. 6, after several years of suffering with cancer, which was borne with patience and cheerfulness.

He was born in Lovell, Me., in September, 1847, the son of Caleb and Charles (McAllister) Haselton. He came to Albany when quite a young man and on Dec. 14, 1872, married Maria Marshall, and went to live with her people on the home farm where they have always resided until about two months ago when they went to spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. L. J. Andrews, and family, where everything was done for his comfort that could be done.

He was a kind and obliging neighbor and will be missed by all.

He leaves to mourn their loss, his wife, one daughter, Mrs. L. J. Andrews, one son, Alfred P. Haselton of New Waterford, two grandsons, Roy and Ray Andrews, and one granddaughter, Mrs. Iva Keniston, one half brother, Weston Haselton of Lovell, one half sister, Clara Haselton, and several nephews and nieces.

A private funeral was held at the Andrews home, Sunday A. M., and he was laid to rest in the cemetery near Hunt's corner. The pall bearers were the near relatives of the deceased, and Rev. Mr. Thurston of North Waterford was the officiating clergyman.

Harold E. Davis of Lewiston was tried on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was found guilty.

THE J. E. JONES LETTER

A SIMPLE INAUGURATION.

When the Inaugural Committee at Washington learned that nineteen State Governors had refused to attend the inauguration while only thirteen had accepted they yielded to the oft repeated requests of President Coolidge for a simple ceremony. The old inaugurations were utilized to bring out all the soldiers and sailors available in the regular military establishment of the Nation, and this was supplemented by many State militia units. Political organizations like Tammany Hall exploited themselves, and not to be outdone there came also the Union League Club of New York, to show that the Republicans were "better looking men" than those of the Democratic machine. It took from early morning until after dark for the line to swing into place and march down Pennsylvania Avenue past the reviewing stand in front of the White House. Hotels, barrooms, restaurants waxed fat on the profits extracted from the great crowds. Essentially it was a grand military display, and as such it may be a wondrous popular appeal. In the past ten years the country has had about all the military shows it craves, and that is why the form and arrangement of the inauguration has lost its popular "kick." President Coolidge talks thrift and economy morning, noon and night. He lives up to his declaration that "I would rather talk about saving pennies and save them than to talk about saving millions and save nothing," and naturally, therefore, he has all along been opposed to a grand and expensive display upon the occasion when he will take the oath of office to succeed himself. No doubt he is deeply conscious that there has been no attempt to put off an affair strange to greatness in comparison to the simple ceremony when his father, with the aid of a few friends, swore him in as President to succeed President Harding.

Therefore it is quite natural that the inauguration has been down to preparations for a parade of seven thousand soldiers, sailors and marines; a few Governors and their staffs. In all the parade should pass the Reviewing Stand is about an hour.

A TADDER CUSTOM

Woodrow Wilson's first inauguration, in 1912, was more than an "old fashioned inauguration." It had all the trappings and settings. It started with a parade at 10 a. m. which lasted until 4 p. m. The day before, on Mar. 2, there was a great parade of women in favor of woman's suffrage. The police

GRANGE NEWS

CANTON GRANGE

Canton Grange held a pleasant meeting, Saturday, with many invited guests. The meeting opened with a song by the Grange, followed by the question, "If Co-operation is bringing prosperity to certain sections and with certain organizations, would it be wise to extend this service and if so, how shall we proceed?" opened by C. P. Tripp. A fine dinner was served. Afternoon opened with song by all; readings by Jennie Bisbee, Lida Tyler, Lena Hall, Emily Brown, Rebecca Cunningham, P. M. Brown, and Bert Kilbreth; songs, Elva Hall; remarks by A. J. Foster, clippings by all; remarks by Llewellyn Hall; address by N. S. Stowell of Dixfield on his visit to England, Ireland and Scotland. The next meeting will be the 50th anniversary of Canton Grange.

PLEASANT VALLEY GRANGE

A large attendance was present at the regular meeting of Pleasant Valley Grange, Tuesday evening, Feb. 10. An oyster supper was served after the meeting and was enjoyed by both members and visitors. Much credit is due the committee in charge of this supper, Mrs. Carrie Jordan, Mrs. Marion Whitman and Mrs. Violet Bennett. Mrs. Bertha Mundi, the Lecturer, offered the following literary program: Piano solo, Marion Whitman; Reading, Edmund C. Smith; D. W. Cushing; Charles McLaughlin; G. D. Cushing; Bertha Mundi; E. C. Smith; Ruth Grover; E. H. Jordan; Marion Whitman. We are endeavoring to make our programs at the meetings as interesting as we can, and we hope everyone will make an effort to be present whenever possible.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

At the Parent-Teachers meeting Superintendent Russell showed plans approved by the State Department for the proposed addition to the Bethel school house.

This will provide two extra classrooms to accommodate the growth of the school.

When the building was erected the rooms were arranged for thirty pupils or forty should the school expand. These rooms hold, now, fifty and sixty, even more, and the village is still growing.

The upper hall, furnished with settees and a blackboard, furnishes an inadequate classroom for the assistant teacher.

During these years several rural schools have been closed and the pupils are now brought to the village school. Five teachers are now caring for the children, where thirteen were needed thirty years ago.

Mr. Russell would be pleased to show the plans to anyone desiring to see them.

Y. M. C. A. CARNIVAL

Plans are being carried forward for the carnival to be held on Feb. 28, but if there is no snow between now and the time set for the carnival it will have to be postponed. Further announcements will be made in next week's issue of the Citizen.

BUDGET COMMITTEE TO HOLD MEETING

Under the authority of the annual meeting of the Town, 1924, the following Budget Committee is appointed, viz.,

F. A. Brown,
W. H. Thurston,
F. H. Howe,
Maud L. Thurston,
F. E. Bean,
A. F. Chapman,
Hugh Thurston,
Harry E. Jordan,
Daglass Cushing,
Robert D. Hastings,
L. W. Hamwell,
H. S. Head.

At the request of Frank A. Brown, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, the Committee will meet at two o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, February 21st, coming.

It is hoped that, in addition to the Committee, a large number of citizens will be on hand prepared to give the Committee the benefit of their suggestions as to the needs of the several departments of the Town's activities.

Signed: H. H. HASTINGS.

The warm weather of last week made the roads almost impassable for two days, Thursday and Friday. No damage has been reported from the high water.

GOULD ACADEMY NOTES

School was closed on Thursday the twelfth, because of bad weather. In the afternoon a dance was held for the dormitory boys and girls for about two hours in the gymnasium. The mid-term examinations scheduled for Thursday and Friday were held Friday and Saturday.

There will be a basketball game between the girls team and the Woodstock High School team on Friday evening, Feb. 20 in the gymnasium. A preliminary game will be played between the Freshman and Sophomore girls. The boys team plays at Lancaster, N. H., the same night.

We were glad to note that two of our alumni starred in the Bates Winter Carnival last week. Miss Margaret Hamman held first place in several races, and Mr. Freddy Philbrick was among the winners.

This Friday night the boys basketball team of Gould Academy will journey to Lancaster, N. H., where they will play the team of that high school. This game promises to be one of the hardest games of the season and Gould will have to use everything in its repertoire if they expect to come home victorious. Lancaster has one of the fastest and best teams in this part of the country and will be out to keep their slate clean.

Gould Academy has been going great guns of late and although the team slumped in the Catholic game they managed to pull out a win and three nights later walked all over Gorham Normal by doubling the score with subs in the game after the first half. The team hasn't been getting its picture or name in the papers very much but they are expecting to be invited to enter the Bates

"A MASQUERADE! Whatever shall I wear to it?" Prue asked, sighing.

"Joseph's coat of many colors is all I can think of right now," Hope answered spitefully. "Your dress is green, your slippers blue, and the newest cape your cousin sent a gorgeous yellow."

"Couldn't we dye it black—and silver-paint my old slippers?" Prue began. Hope's frown deepened. "You dress in green, your slippers blue, and the newest cape your cousin sent a gorgeous yellow. I see myself in such a rig—you'd look a fright with that sordid mop of yours. Trade me the cape, that's a dear, and let me make Ashton sit and take notice!"

"Can't see it—somehow!" Prue returned, struggling. She was distinctly weary of having Hope take choice of all that was sent her, with hardly more than a by your leave.

Prue, though as generous as Hope was selfish, smiled implicitly at the thought of what Hope didn't know; namely, the box Cousin Kate had sent only yesterday.

Overstepping that morning, Prue had rushed off to her school teaching leaving it unopened in ambush. Later in the day she was dancing about it, her eyes stung, waving wildly above her head a one-piece bathing suit of scarlet silk, made evidently for some Madame Gollath. Mining deeper she found pretty near everything she did not need, nor want, but at the bottom lay long curtains of lace net, delicately time-yellowed. And then, as by decree of a fairy godmother, golden slippers, faintly tarnished, but so narrow as to explain why they had become dead stock. Prue glanced at her own feet—slimmer than even her slightrness warranted. She could wear them—she would—moreover, she would recklessly buy scarlet silk stockings; also, she'd contrive a cunning scarlet mask from the surplussage of the bathing suit.

The maskers came to the Elliotts' manorland, swathed head to foot in bedeckings—nobody was to speak a word before the midnight unmasking. Character names, boldly written, were pinned to left shoulders. Prue's tag of scarlet cardboard, here in gilt letters "Satanita."

Easily she was the sensation of the hour. As she moved, the cape flowed backward, the rich red underneath the yellow made her a figure of flame and gold. Joe and Tony, whooping faintly their delight, rushed at it, dragged it to the middle of the big dancing floor, and cried jointly: "Dance everybody! The queen has come!"

"Will she deign to choose a king?" a deep voice asked—one that set Miss Prudence Eldings about in a panic. She had wondered if Phil Berwick would be there—still more if he would remember their college days together. Hope had boasted of being his best friend there. Prue had said nothing. Through half-shut eyes she saw him step clear of the circle about her. But wicked Tony pushed him back, crying: "Hopeful aspirants must go into the library and approach the queen's back, so she may choose by intuition!"

Chorus of laughter, scurrying feet, then Tony crying: "Victims, approach and swear fealty to Satanita! One at a time, please! No scratching, biting, nor gouging. Now—go to it!"

They came—a rushing, crushing line. Fate fought for Prue—Hope was always angrily sure of that—for didn't her head shake like an idol's with machinery inside until Phil Berwick said, "Here—no more than that—when the queen wheeled and half-fainted in his arms. Then, of course, the applause was wild—then, also, of course, Hope rushed out of sight for a moment's weeping. Thus, watered, her angry spite knew like Jonah's gourd. Retaining her complexion, she went back to the dance and stopped in the side door to reconnoiter the battlefield. Prue, dancing as though on winged feet, held her head high and delicately away from her partner, although he was Judge Wingfield, the richest bachelor in the state. Of course that toady wanted to make up to the queen, said Hope to herself. Joe Elliot, the insurance broker, had slipped her much to the back of her yellow head, and was frankly making eyes of Phil Berwick as they swept by the water. The long noses were making their last long notes. Hope stepped clear of the wallflower fringe, and waited the end. As the dancers walked toward the piazza, where moonlight and cool drinks awaited her, she said loudly: "You stole my idea, Prudence Eldings! It's like the rest of your life ways!"

"Explain! You must!" said courtly Major Elliot, shouldering forward and grasping her arm. All in a huddle she told her tale—winding up with, "But it won't do her much good when she has to unmask—she'll show then what a fright she made of herself—a wolf in sheep's clothing—that's what she is, for all her baby ways!"

"Say rather a lamb in tiger stripes!" Major Elliot laughed. "Phil at his elbow said, so all could hear: 'Don't we wish there were more like her! Satanita, will you have me the captain of your legion?'"

"I don't wish," said Satanita, dropping her mask to smile at the world.

Fifteen Little Rules That Make for Success

An employer advertised for a typist.

Six applicants were interviewed. Two asked, "What are the hours?"

Two asked, "What make of typewriter do you use?" One asked, "How long a holiday do I get?" and the other wanted a job. She got it.

The successful man lengthens his stride when he discovers that the signpost has deceived him; the failure looks for a place to sit down.

To yield is easy, to resist is hard. Grapple the first difficulty that comes up. Wrestle till you down it, if it takes till break of day.

Concentrate all your thoughts upon the work in hand. The sun's rays do not burn until brought to a focus.

Poor work will make you poor.

If you feel yourself the victim of hard luck, there is a cure for you. Try hard work.

Some men move through life as a band of music moves down the thoroughfare, flinging out melody and harmony through the air to everyone far and near who listens.

Many a man has made a needless failure because for purposes of intimidation he has let himself lose the reputation of dealing fairly and generously with others.

Beware of the man who is always confessing his faults but never trying to correct them.

Seek Indian Relics

A hundred pounds of colored beads, scores of brass ornaments of all kinds, many other curios besides several leather pouches of what is said to be war paint, have been unearthed by scientists of the history department in the University of Washington, on the lower Elwha river in the north-west corner of the United States. The Indian relics were discovered by digging in an old burial ground, and while some of the articles reflect the influence of early white traders there are many which appear to have been buried generations before explorers invaded the northwest. Evidence was unearthed that at some distant time either war or pestilence visited the Northwest tribes and took great toll. This was indicated by forty skeletons found in one grave. Increased efforts are to be made to recover enough of the rare specimens of aboriginal culture to enable scientists to identify the origin of the first inhabitants of the heavily timbered northwest regions.

The maskers came to the Elliotts' manorland, swathed head to foot in bedeckings—nobody was to speak a word before the midnight unmasking. Character names, boldly written, were pinned to left shoulders. Prue's tag of scarlet cardboard, here in gilt letters "Satanita."

EVERY JOINT IN HIS BODY AGED

Remarkable Relief From Agonizing Suffering Reported By Manchester, N. H., Man After Taking Karnak

Reports are pouring in from all over New Hampshire demonstrating that Karnak is bringing amazing relief to people here who have been suffering misery from stomach troubles.

The case of Mr. Francis X. Parent, 41 Marlton St., Manchester, N. H., is typical of the hundreds received daily. He says:

"Three bottles of Karnak have completely relieved me of rheumatism and stomach troubles that had made my life miserable for three years. I can move every muscle in my body now, haven't a pain or an ache and digest everything I eat. Karnak certainly has a hard test in my case, because I was in such bad shape I had to quit work. I couldn't eat anything, every joint in my body ached and I could hardly get around."

Remember—Karnak Pills are an essential and vitally important part of the Karnak treatment, especially if constipated.

Karnak is sold in Bethel exclusively by W. E. Bossmann and by the leading druggist in every town.

NEW ENGLAND HEALTH INSTITUTE

Probably the most unique map of Maine that ever has been devised is being used to help advertise the big New England Health Institute which is to be held in Portland the week of May 4th to 9th. The map is devised to indicate many of the attractions which Maine has to offer in the way of healthful recreation. Within the outline borders of the State are shown campers with tent, camp-fire, flag pole, etc., then there is a fishing scene, a typical beach scene, a hunting scene, an auto party on a Maine highway, a mountain climber with his pack and staff heading for the top of Katahdin, and along the ocean front a sail boat is clipping along in a stiff breeze. In bold letters above the map is the inscription "Maine Welcomes You." In addition to the map the preliminary announcement—which is being mailed to thousands of leading men and women throughout New England—carries the following statement:

"More than 1,000 men and women, coming from all sections of New England, will gather in Portland, Maine the week of May 4 to 9 to attend the sessions of the New England Health Institute."

These State and community leaders will include health officers, physicians, nurses, educators, pure food directors, social workers, leaders in the public health movement, employers, club women, advertising experts, editors and heads of families.

YOU are especially invited. The Institute will include 87 lectures by national and international authorities on the Conservation of Health.

This splendid course—of great value to every family and every community in New England—is under the auspices of the United States Public Health Service, the New England State Health Departments, the Yale and Harvard Schools of Public Health and the departments of public health and biology of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Simmons College.

There is no charge for the course except the registration fee of one dollar. A postcard request—addressed to the State Department of Health, Augusta, Maine—will bring you a copy of the program.

Come—you will be welcome.

Beauty and "Homeyness" in Frame Construction

The building of a home should never be considered in the light of an investment. If you build for investment, build a house, but if you have in mind the building of a home, build it according to your ideas and incorporate all the contentment and happiness features into the general plan, in so far as they do not interfere with common-sense construction.

If you prefer frame construction and feel that it is more homey, then that is the material you should use. Lumber is one of the best possible materials to build a home. Its permanence is sufficient to satisfy every owner except one in the competing material business.

In the New England and Southern states we find homes which were built before the Revolutionary war still standing, sound and true and with no signs of depreciation.

Lumber imparts a particularly homey aspect to the house; it seems to take one back to their old home and childhood and brings out the best there is in one. It is conducive of happiness and contentment and, after all is said and done, that is all home is for, anyway.

On the silver screen a woman was bewitching her fate at not having found happiness and was reminded that she was promised success, not happiness, and the same may be true of a house. It may be a house, not a home.

Build of frame if you wish this type of construction; keep it well painted and it will last as long as you can wish.—Boston Herald.

Fighting for Ideals in City Managership

A municipal duel is under way in cities big and little of the country. The fight is between two ideas—an old idea and a new idea, R. L. Duffus states, in the New York Times. The new and challenging idea is the city manager form of municipal government. In the last notable encounter between the two systems, in the recent election, the city manager form won a victory, and another big city—Cincinnati—is added to the list of those municipalities now under the city manager form of government.

What will the outcome be? No man may yet say. Will some one of the great cities of the country try the new system?

Among the cities and towns now under this plan, in addition to Cincinnati, are Cleveland, Dayton, Pasadena, San Diego, Colorado Springs, Miami, Wichita, Portland, Maine; Grand Rapids, Michigan; Springfield, Ohio; Knoxville, Tennessee; Norfolk, Va.; Charleston, West Virginia; Wheeling, W. Va.; and Auburn, Newburgh, Sherrill, Watertown and Watervliet, N. Y. Only four cities which adopted the plan by popular vote have ever discarded it.

For Expert City Planning

Charles H. Cheney, city planner of Los Angeles, suggested at a recently held conference and pointed out the need of the "efficiency and business appearance of most of our American cities" the establishment of competent committees or advisory bodies to pass upon all designs for structures and suppress those not up to a reasonable standard of attractiveness.

Regional planning is a thing of international interest and metropolitan study was brought out as a successful activity in the past few years by Hugh H. Dancy, secretary and member of the Los Angeles planning commission.

In mentioning the problem of regional transportation, Mr. Dancy reported a "greater spirit of cooperation and tolerant understanding" than ever before "on part of governmental agencies, city bodies and business."

Artistic Trick

Artistically back to the ancient "painted" houses? In the first place, the art and science of painting houses is not so simple as it seems. It is a science in itself. The painter must know the proper way to mix his colors, the proper way to apply his brush, and the proper way to finish his work. It is a science that requires years of study and practice to master.

National Capital's Beauty

Three beauty committees with equal driving force and force of mind are at work on the beautification of the nation's capital. The committees are the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the National Capital Art Commission, and the National Capital Historic Commission. They are working to make the capital city a more beautiful and historic place.

Recount for Eleanor

Eleanor was asked by her teachers at school how many children they had. She said: "Three." Counting home to school she found a new-born child. When she went back to school after lunch she found her teacher had made a mistake.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonnier

BROWNIE LAND BULLETIN

"I've a copy of the Brownie Land Bulletin," said Billie Browne to the other girls.

"I brought that out this time, together with some of my Brownie helpers, as I hadn't enough items this time for the National News."

"Let's hear the Brownie Land Bulletin," they all said.

So Billie Browne sat on a little stump and the others sat around and read the following:

"There will be a Christmas holiday party given at Brookwood-on-the-lake. Invitations are just out. Several little girls are mad and aren't speaking to each other just now, but it is to be hoped that as the Christmas season approaches this will not be the case."

"It is so awkward to give a party when some don't speak to others! Besides it is so foolish."

"Games are going to be the feature of Lucy's holiday party. The most popular game is hide-and-seek but 'Come-here, come-here wherever you are' is apt to be the way this game ends at Lucy's because there are such wonderful and such difficult places for hiding."

"This is the Brownie Land greeting to the Boys and Girls:

"Merry Christmas, girls and boys—May you get magnificent toys."

"Then we have one for the reindeer:

"Reindeer, pray do not be sad. Automobiles are a bit of a fad. From your high place you'll never fall."

"There is to be a Thanksgiving party before all this, however. The girls will dress up as girls and the boys will dress up as boys."

"The boys are planning to look as much as possible like girls and they will take off the ways of girls."

"It is to be hoped they will not forget their parts as was the case in a party like this last year."

"Last year the boys dressed as girls forgot they were girls at one time and started to weep."

"The little music box sends word to the Bulletin that it and all music boxes never get tired of playing the same tunes over and over."

"In fact they have the same spirit about the tunes no matter how many times they are played and nothing discourages them except when they are not wanted up."

"Then they are very sad."

"A horse sends word to the Bulletin that he hopes there will not be many whips used this year and can't he do something about it?"

"He says that when it is known that horse sense means good sense it seems unfair to strike a horse. He says he cannot hear it when he passes by a shop and sees people trying whips to see which is the best—and best doesn't mean anything pleasant."

"We are glad to see his message and hope that horses will be more and more kindly and humanely treated all the time."

"The Antlers' club sends word that they hope you will think they show up pretty well, even in spite of the fact that they can never say a word in defense of themselves if anything goes wrong, nor can they ever praise themselves."

"And girls can always say little things about themselves."

"The Little Dog club sends word to the Bulletin that they are as old as dirt, and still waiting in the land and the Little Dog club sends word to the Bulletin that they are as old as dirt, and still waiting in the land."

"The Little Dog club sends word to the Bulletin that they are as old as dirt, and still waiting in the land."

WORK WEARING YOU OUT?

Bethel Folks Find a Bad Back a Heavy Handicap

Is your work wearing you out? Are you tortured with throbbing backache—feel tired, weak and discouraged? Then look to your kidneys! Many occupations tend to weaken the kidneys.

Constant backaches, headaches, dizziness and rheumatic pains are the result. You suffer annoying bladder irregularities; feel nervous, irritable and worn out. Don't wait! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Workers everywhere recommend Doan's. Here's a Bethel case:

Mrs. A. L. Holt, 7 Elm St., says: "My kidneys were out of order and I had severe spells of backache. Everything seemed a drag to me when going about my housework. I also had dizzy spells when black specks came before my eyes. As soon as I began using Doan's Pills, which I got at Bosserman's Drug Store, I got relief and three boxes cured me."

Mrs. Holt is only one of many Bethel people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S PILLS, the same that Mrs. Holt had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 66 cents at all dealers. Foster-McMillan Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Doan's Pills are sold everywhere. If you cannot get them, write to Foster-McMillan Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

SOUTH ALBANY

James H. Stone began running his mill nights Sunday night. S. S. Greenleaf was at Stone's camp, Sunday.

Mr. Fullerton has completed his job at North Albany and returned home. E. K. Shedd went to Norway, Monday, after Mrs. Shedd who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Penfold.

Earl Barker from Norway is working at Stone's mill. Beautiful weather for February; looks as if Spring had come.

Fred Serlinner went up to Mr. Bruce's Monday. Woodrum Scribner called at James Kimball's, recently.

Mrs. Sadie Canwell and daughter, Beatrice, are "recovering from the bumps."

Explorer's Imagination After Marco Polo's time, Japan was known to Europeans as Cipango or Cipango. Polo's account declared that the Japanese ruler's palace was entirely roofed with fine gold and paved with gold plates two fingers thick.

SMART WASH FABRICS For 1925

An Event in Spring and Summer Dress Goods Worthy Your Consideration

We should really call this a Demonstration Event, for during this week we will demonstrate the complete readiness in our Dress Goods Department to meet our every fabric need. We are selling a great many yards every day, though it seems rather early. Here are reasons why many are selecting now: A large, fresh assortment to select from. To get Spring and Summer sewing done before the pleasant warm days come and then you will want to be out of doors. And to have your dresses ready, being the first to wear the new fabrics.

The materials are Silk and Cotton Crepes of many kinds, plain, striped and checked. Fashion, Normandy, Voile, Linen, Plain and Figured Shantung, Piedmont Prints, Imperial Chambray, Gingham, Percale and many novelties. The leading colors of the season are here in these new materials. May we send you samples of these new goods?

Pictorial Review Patterns

What woman does not thrill to it—that look of critical inspection which says, "What a stunning gown! I wonder who made it!" Every woman can make her own clothes, and know that their style is correct—the fit perfect.

Pictorial Review Patterns for years have been the choice of women who demand chic and smartness—whether in a simple frock or an elaborate gown.

Millions of women did not know they could look slender until they used Pictorial Review Patterns.

No other patterns are so easy to use.

The famous Pictograf is included free with each pattern. This shows you exactly how to begin making your garment—how to proceed step by step to completion.

You'll want to see the many advance fashions illustrated in the February issue of Pictorial Review. Now on sale.

The most beautiful and complete collection of advance Spring styles will be found in the Pictorial Review Fashion Book for Spring. From the simplest apron frock to the most elaborate ball dress, every design in the book expresses smart style.

The Spring Quarterly is ready, 25c.

WHY

Oldtime Business Idea Must Be Abandoned

WHY

Oldtime Business Idea Must Be Abandoned

Starting at the bottom and working up used to mean moving through one department after another, so that when a man came to head of the business he had a thorough understanding of its every phase.

This is no longer possible. Organizations have become too large and too highly articulated. The problems are too complex and too diverse.

A young man who set out to learn in practice every phase of a large business (buying, designing, manufacturing, traffic, finance, credit, selling, advertising) is likely to have one of these experiences:

1. He will make a failure of one point or another, and be discharged or resign in discouragement.

2. He will make so striking a success in one department that he will become a fixture there, will be hired away, or will go out to start in business for himself as a specialist.

3. He will fall through to a general executive position with no more than a superficial grasp of the real work of the departments, because a lifetime is not long enough to let him master all of them.

Therefore, as our business units have grown larger, we have found fewer and fewer men competent to manage them, while at the same time the direction of specialized work becomes better. Richard J. Walsh in the Century Magazine.

Why Grafting Increases Product of Grapevines

The propagation of American varieties of grapes by grafting on hardy root stocks, a method not generally followed by American grape growers, insures greater yields and much improvement in the quality of the fruit, according to two publications on the subject just issued by the New York agricultural experiment station at Geneva.

As a result of these tests, it is believed that American grapes can be materially improved in quality, that yields can be increased and that more vigorous vines can be obtained by bench-grafting desirable varieties on suitable stocks. At present the cost of grafted stock will probably be too great to warrant the commercial grower's changing over to planting stock propagated in this way. Improved methods of grafting should lower the cost, however, and eventually, when the supply of grafted vines is more abundant, this method of propagation should prove a boon to commercial grape growing.

Such well-known varieties as Delaware, Campbell, Niagara, Concord, Jones and Catawba grafted on root stocks of Clinton, Riparia Gloire and Rupestris St. George and grown alongside of "own rooted" vines propagated in the usual way showed marked superiority over the latter in many ways, but especially with respect to greatly improved quality.

Why Custom Changed
In the Orient of old, malaria was a dissemination of Providence, and nobody thought of troubling the pools to kill the mosquito larvae. Incantations to the gods took the place of libations of petroleum poured on stagnant water. Today, in the western world, we find men turning from the gods to the little fishes. At a conference of malaria field workers in New Orleans the mosquito was extolled as the natural enemy of man. Those who used casters were urged to place minnows in them, and a plan was set afoot for putting the little fish in ponds and ditches that were the nurseries of noxious insects. It is another victory of applied science over superstitious ignorance.—Exchange.

Why He Was Delinquent
String Bean, a character around the water front, agreed to maintain a savings account, made one deposit, and there the matter rested. The head of the bank met him one day and proceeded to take him to task.
"Now look here, String Bean, you promised to put $5 in our bank every month. You haven't done so. You could easily do it."
"I s'pose I could, boss," responded the culprit sadly. "Frooble with you banking gentleman is you don't send around a man to threaten me!"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Why the Leaves Fall
Leaves are a temporary part of the plant. Every plant has a period of rest due to annually recurring and unfavorable conditions of temperature and moisture or both, when the activities of life in the plant are suspended and it ceases to feed or grow. In such a state leaves have no function and are, therefore, needless. In a delicious plant the leaves suddenly and conspicuously fall off. In others called evergreens, most of the leaves are retained in the green condition until they are gradually replaced by new ones.

Why He Was Not Afraid
During a thunderstorm, Jones, a wireless hand, went out in the light, lowered his aerial and carefully turned one end of it in the sea.
Next morning, as he was going to town in his truck he told a fellow traveler what he had done.
"But, weren't you afraid of the lightning striking you?" queried a rather incredulous listener.
"No," replied Jones. "You see, I had some silk pajamas on, and I read that silk is a good insulating material."—News and Features.

WEST PARIS

The funeral service of Mrs. Jennie D. Everett, wife of Leroy Everett, was held at the home on Monday afternoon, Feb. 9. Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes spoke words of comfort and a profusion of beautiful flowers gave their silent message of love and sympathy. Interment in West Paris Cemetery. Mrs. Everett was the daughter of the late John and Dolly Gile Chase, and was born at North Paris, May 22, 1851. She was twice married. Her first husband, Henry C. Hammond, died about three months after their marriage. Her second husband, Leroy F. Everett, survives her. Three children were born to them: Henry C. who died at the age of three years; Lucy, wife of Lewis E. Estes, who has lived at home and cared for her parents, and Roy, who died in infancy. Mrs. Everett was the fifth child in a family of eight children. A sister, Mrs. Harriet Lapham, passed away about twenty years ago. Five sisters survive: Mrs. Phoebe Edgcomb of South Paris, Mrs. Charlotte Ellis of Turner, Mrs. Mary G. Bradbury of West Paris, Mrs. Laura Chase and Mrs. Anna Kimball of South Paris, and one brother, John Chase of Madison. Mrs. Everett had been a great sufferer, undergoing four operations, three in two years. During all this period of illness Mr. Everett has been untiring in his devotion, remaining at the hospital through her illness. She had been a resident of Trap Corner thirty-two years, and was held in high esteem by neighbors and a large circle of friends.

The Helping Hand Class held the February Birthday meeting at the home of Mrs. Minnie Day on the 6th. After the business meeting was disposed of an interesting program was given consisting of a solo by Mrs. Stover, vocal duet by Miss Berry and Mrs. Curtis, and a piano solo by Mrs. McKen. Sketches of Lincoln and Washington and quotations from Longfellow and the names of a good many other noted people whose birthdays occur in February. Last on the list was that of Clara Berry, member of the class and superintendent of the Federated Sunday School, and a birthday cake was presented to her. Then Mrs. Stover read an original poem with name included in it, and then a birthday gift of a gold wrist watch bracelet was presented to her, all of which was a perfect surprise to the recipient. Games and conundrums followed and refreshments of ice cream and cake. All had a pleasant time.

Rev. H. G. Kennedy of the Maine Lord's Day League spoke at the Methodist Church, Sunday morning, and at a union service at the Universalist Church in the evening.

D. W. Gray is very ill from sciatic rheumatism.

At a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association last Monday evening there was a short musical program, and a talk by Dr. D. M. Stewart of South Paris.
